

Table of contents

7	Acknowledgements
9	Introduction
	⋮ Frédéric Keck & Felipe Vander Velden
	Does animal trafficking have a history?	15
	Parts and wholes	19
	From local markets to global trade	21
27	Tigers, ostrich and other commodities
	the wildlife trade and the Guaycurú groups in the Gran Chaco during the 18th century
	⋮ Celeste Medrano
	Hunters of the Gran Chaco	29
	Hunters and traders	32
	Tigers and other commodities	38
	Hunters and their prey	42
47	Dialogs and tensions on wild pet trade in Uruguay
	⋮ Magdalena Chouhy, Lucía Bergós & Juan Martín Dabezies
	Control institutions: alliances and distrust in the regulation of wildlife trade	49
	Zoos: destination for donated or confiscated pets	51
	NGOs: problematizing demand	54
	Breeders: narratives of legal and sustainable supply of wild pets	56
	A non-conventional Clinic: health concerns in pet keeping	58
63	Wild meat and feathers
	Indigenous peoples and markets for wild fauna in the Brazilian Amazon
	⋮ Felipe Vander Velden
	The Karitiana	66
	Wild meat and wild feathers	67

	On the web	74
	Animal markets and Indigenous peoples	77
83	Wild meat trade and pathogenic exposures through human-animal contact in Central Africa : Romain Duda, Tamara Giles-Vernick & Victor Narat
	Wild meat trade and pathogenic risks in Central Africa	84
	Study site: Southeastern Cameroon	86
	Pathogenic risks from hunting sites to villages	88
	A shared risk	88
	Butchering and sharing	90
	The economic chain of wild meat	92
	Covert activities	93
97	Of donkey skins and seahorses symbolic and economic values on the markets of animals between Africa and China : Jean-Baptiste Pettier & Mariana Gameiro
	Birth of an industry: Chinese medicine's capitalist reinvention since the 1980s	100
	Seahorses: the unequal distribution of charisma of a vulnerable species	104
	Donkey skins: ancestral uses and present resistances shaping a new market	109
117	Controlling ivory stockpiles in Hong Kong to protect elephants in Africa : Claire Bouillot
	Measuring the threat	123
	Modes of existence of the endangered elephant	126
	The urgency of clearing all stock	129
137	Snake markets in India and the unstable construction of "natural resources" : Mathieu Quet & Marine Al Dahdah
	The trade in snake skin	139
	The 1972 law as a turning point	144
	Recent transformations of the snake trade	146

157	Selling wild meat online
	body design and aesthetics in a Sulawesi market
	: Nicolas Baran
	Brief history of the supply chain	160
	Hunting and wildlife values	161
	Virtual practices, itinerancy, and online sales	164
	Visualizing wildlife trade: snake livestream in Langowan	164
	Edible gold	166
	Political mobilization and regionalism	171
	Beyond the market: the charismatic appeal and the aesthetics
	of wildlife trade in Sulawesi	174
177	Multispecies ethnography of wet markets
	in Cambodia after Covid-19
	: Arnaud Morvan
	Livestock origin and health risks	179
	Smallholder farming and wildlife hunting	180
	Commercial farms and industrial livestock farming	183
	The case of Chbar Ampov Market	184
	Animal species in the market	188
	Poultry, pigs and cattle	194
	Fish, amphibians and crustaceans	195
	Animals from the wild	197
	Human-animal contacts and multispecies dynamics	201
	Human contacts	201
	Non-human contacts	205
211	Regulating wet markets in China
	during the Covid-19 pandemic
	: Frédéric Keck & Nan Nan
	Regulating wetmarkets after health crises in Asia	211
	Wet markets in Singapore, Hong Kong and mainland China	211
	The persistence of wet markets through health crises in China	214
	An investigation in the suburbs of a big Chinese city in 2021-2022	217
	The wholesale market: a highly regulated venue for the sale of live poultry	219
	Street market retailing: a grey area of “trust”	220
	The country market: market regulation and merchant strategy	221

231	The use of animal-based drugs in modern and Chinese medicines the case of bear bile : Liz P.Y. Chee
	From bench to farms to bedside: the discovery of “ursodeoxycholic acid” and trans-national knowledge transfer	233
	Expanding uses for bear bile: the invention of “health products” and increasing scientific sanction during Covid-19	245
251	Urban markets and the dog meat trade in South Korea : Julien Dugnoille & Miwon Seo-Plu
	The “modernisation” of dog markets by urbanists and controllers	253
	Metabolic and symbolic views of the dog meat trade by retailers and consumers	257
	Shared feelings between dogs and humans in the views of activists and vets	264
273	Conclusion : Frédéric Keck & Felipe Vander Velden
277	References
297	Contributors
301	Index
303	Table of illustrations	